

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

(Weekly Review - National Affairs)
BY M. McDUGALL

Ottawa, September 19th While the eyes of the capital are on the air but waged nightly over London and on the attacks by the R. A. F. bombers on Germany, and while our thoughts are stirred by the danger of an invasion of the British Isles, Canada continues to forge her weapons for the part she is playing and in fuller measure will continue to play in the great conflict. During the past week the second of Canada's war loans has been floated, providing funds to carry on the war. The only trouble about this financial operation, which is as important to the conduct of the war as the training of men in the field, on the sea and in the air, has been the toughness of the small investor in buying bonds, as pointed out by leaders in all walks of life. Lending money to Canada in her hour of trial is not only a duty, but a privilege and also a good investment.

The joint air training plan, the importance of which in the future operations of the British Commonwealth in the gigantic struggle is becoming daily more apparent, is beginning to assume a "commonwealth" character. Very shortly now air men from Australia and New Zealand will arrive to receive final instructions at the training camp, joining up with Canadian and British airmen. Newfoundland is also beginning to send young men to the schools. British students are now arriving regularly. Just nine months after the agreement was made by the four Empire governments to embark on the great cooperative training plan, the first products of the plan are beginning to appear. The first completely trained pilot observers and gunners will graduate this month from the schools, and from this time forward there will be a steady stream of expert air men emerging from these schools to take their place in the line of air battle. Visitors from Britain have been astonished and greatly pleased by the progress that has been made in the plan. The construction program for 1941 including aerodromes, hangars, schools, etc., will be completed in 1940. Before the end of this month schools will be in operation and by the end of the year there will be 45,000 to 46,000 men in training as air crews and 7,000 as service and maintenance men.

In a recent statement Mr. Howe, minister of munitions and supply said that there was no occasion to worry about the supply of training planes.

STRATHMORE LIGHTS GROW DIM

Sitting in the comfort of their homes Monday evening about 10 p.m. people of the district where electric energy is supplied by the Calgary Power Co. Ltd. were unaware of the dangerous light being cast by the sun.

When the blaze broke out, workmen cut the plant off from other plants to avoid short circuits.

Company workmen were helpless, before the swell of the oil flames, and a call was sent in to Calgary. A chemical wagon named by four men under Capt. Perry took left at once.

Oldest Unit.

Completed in 1911, the plant is the oldest of the Calgary Power Company's. West of Calgary in the Bow River Valley, but all machinery was conserved in first class shape.

Connection made with an auxiliary service soon restored the lights to usual brightness, and the radio announced the cause of the trouble.

A further example of the progress of modern scientific inventions.

NEWSPAPER WEEK

WILL BE COMMEMORATED THROUGHOUT CANADA BY PAPERS FROM COAST TO COAST OCTOBER 1-8. THE STANDARD IS ARRANGING A SPECIAL EDITION FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3rd. WATCH FOR IT.

The Copeland Musicians

Messrs Macduff and Kenneth Copeland proved themselves to be very versatile, proficient and interesting entertainers when they appeared in the Concert given in United Church Thursday evening last under the auspices of the Ladies Aid. Owing to the short notice, the event was not well advertised, consequently a regrettable small audience was in attendance.

Notwithstanding this the musicians gave a long, varied and exceedingly well executed program.

Father and son gave freely of their varied musical attainment, and the appreciation of the audience was constantly maintained.

They love music and live with their instruments was clearly felt.

Mr. Copeland Sr. possesses very varied gifts as an entertainer. Possessing a keenly sensitive touch on the piano, his accompaniment for his son's beautifully rendered violin selections were just what was needed.

His recitation of the Ballad of St. Mary and the Chimes was very cleverly executed. He possesses a baritone voice of good tone and volume. He also possesses a strong penchant for humor and his anecdotes brought forth gales of laughter from his audience.

The imitation of the Babbies played by both on their violins was very good indeed. Mr. Kenneth Copeland's violin selections included some of the favorites of all music lovers, and they were well played.

The intriguing mechanism of the Babbies together with the picturesque costume of the Highlander is always a source of interest to the non-Sport and of indescribable thrill to those who hail from The Land of the Loat.

Messrs Copeland are a very interesting Concert Party of two.

Rev. S. R. Hunt introduced the Musicians.

The programme rendered included: Land of Hope and Glory.

Your Excellency, Lord Balmora.

Lord Britannia.

Serenade by Toselli.

What The Red Cross Has Done In Canada

At the outbreak of the war a year ago, the Canadian Red Cross lost no time in making an intensive study of all possible disaster relief problems, on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of this country.

As a result, large quantities of supplies - coats, bedding, clothing and medical supplies, mobile surgical units, etc., have been stored at strategic points, to be available instantly if disaster of any nature should occur.

Thoroughly organized local disaster relief committees, including medical and nursing personnel, and other types of expert medical services are ready now, and at number of points there have been reported suitable locations and buildings from which, in emergencies, the Red Cross services could work.

Dr. Routley National Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross, says: "We have perfected to as great an extent as is possible this great voluntary disaster relief organization."

The Red Cross is as well prepared at home in Canada as it has been across the seas.

"POET OF YUKON" VISITS JASPER

Probability that he will return to England as soon as his family is settled at Vancouver was expressed by Robert W. Service, famous poet of the Yukon, who returned to the Dominion recently after 25 years residence in France. He emphasized that Great Britain can utilize the services of every available able-bodied man, not necessarily in military ranks but in fields of industry and to further organization of war effort.

Commenting on the fall of France, the 64 year old poet stated that the false security in the belief that the Maginot Line was impregnable and also incompetent leadership were prominent factors in the final breaking down of French morale. Mr. Service, with his wife and daughter, escaped

Canadian Red Cross Society

The Red Cross is the sole agent permitted by international law to send food parcels to prisoners of war. Hundreds of veterans of the last war have testified that the food parcels they received from the Red Cross saved them from starvation while they were prisoners in Germany.

A number of people have asked us what assurance the Red Cross has that in this war, in which the Nazis have violated so many international conventions prisoners in Germany are receiving parcels sent to them. Distribution of parcels is made by the International Red Cross, whose inspectors go through the prison camps to make sure that prisoners are properly treated and get their parcels and letters.

The British Red Cross has called us that according to its information parcels to date have been reaching their proper destinations. From time to time I shall give further information on this point.

Now I must tell you something about the newly organized Women's Voluntary Service Corps of the Canadian Red Cross.

A corps of khaki-uniformed qualified women drivers, serving without pay and without to handle anything on wheels, including ambulances and trucks, will be established across the country. Mrs. W. D. Chambers, of Montreal, the first Canadian woman to win the Military Medal in the last war, has been appointed Commandant of the driving corps, which is being organized along the lines of the Women's Transport Service of Great Britain.

This petite and youthful-looking Commandant went overseas in 1918 and drove an ambulance and staff car in London for the Canadian Army Medical Corps. In 1917 she became a member of the First Aid Nursing Yeomanry and drove an ambulance in France. Mrs. Chambers won her decoration removing soldiers to safety, his bombs raised from the skies. Members of her corps will be trained to handle trucks transporting food and comforts, as well as personnel training camps in Canada. They will also be trained to handle ambulances in anticipation of a demand for such service. The Transport Service will also help with evacuees arriving in Canada. Voluntary Red Cross drivers already have been meeting children arriving from England and transporting them to their destinations.

Applicants for the Transport Service must be over 18 years of age, and are required to hold a St. John Ambulance First Aid Certificate and to have taken one of the approved courses in Motor Mechanics, or to have had previous war driving experience. Incidentally, members pay for their own uniforms.

"Those new people across the road seem very devoted," said Mrs. Smith wistfully to the newspaper which hid her husband.

A rustle of the sheet was all the reply she got, but she was used to that. "Every time he goes out he kisses her, and goes on throwing kisses all down the street. Ernie, why don't you do that?"

"Me?" snorted the man behind the news. "I don't know her!"

A GOOD TIME TO PLANT MANY PERENNIALS

Lethbridge Experimental Station

Experience at the Lethbridge Experimental Station has shown that perennial flowers are best planted in the fall. No flower garden is complete without perennials and few, if any flowers need as little attention when once started.

In preparing the soil some growers trench to a depth of 1 1/2 to 2 feet and add well rotted cow manure which is worked into the lower foot or so of trenched soil. Care is taken not to apply any manure where it will be likely to come into direct contact with any of the new plants. A good plan is to first remove six or more inches of the surface soil, replacing it after the bed has been trenched and manured. In addition to manure, chemical fertilizer is useful. Ammonium phosphate is recommended and it should be applied broadcast at the rate of about 8 ounces to 100 square feet of bed and worked into the soil by spading. At this station the practice is to apply well rotted manure as a top dressing just before treading up.

This covering protects the plants from excessive thawing and freezing, and helps to conserve moisture. In the spring the longer straw of the manure is raked off but the shorter material is forked into the ground near the plants to provide added fertility.

The peony is best planted in the fall where adequate moisture is available and best results are obtained by planting early in September. The varieties are propagated by dividing the roots of the old plants and the divisions are cut so that each will have at least one bud. The plants are set so that the crowns are about two inches below the surface. The plant needs plenty of room for full development and need to be set three to four feet apart and in dry land five feet.

There is not space to even mention the many other desirable perennials available to the flower grower who is planning a perennial border, though other varieties that deserve consideration, to name only a few, are the Iceland and Oriental Poppies, varieties of Columbine, Coreopsis, Gaillardia and Delphinium. All are easily started from seed or by dividing old plants.

P. E. (Pat) O'HOOLEY

An old farmer made a trip to the city and decided to start his wife by appearing in brand new clothes. To save wear on the new suit, he placed it in the back of the wagon. A few miles from home he took off his old clothes and tossed them over a bridge into the river.

He was surprised when he found that his new clothes had dropped out of the wagon. "Goddam, Maude," he yelled, pulling down his shirt tail as he realized his plight. "We'll surprise her anyhow!"

Bobby Hambly says that man who gives in when he is wrong is wise, and a man who gives in when he is right is married.

"Oh, that was my husband," she replied.

"Your husband? Then I had better be going."

"Oh don't bother. He's down town playing poker with you."

Mason: "When we reach that bend in the road, I'm going to kiss you."

Kette: "Isn't that going a bit too far?"

Judge: "You're a danger to pedestrians. You are not allowed to drive for two years."

Defendant: "But, your honor, my living depends on it."

Judge: "So does theirs."

It is a fitting and unique tribute that the leader of the first flotilla of destroyers transferred from United States to Britain will be named Churchill in honor of Britain's Prime Minister, through whose influential cooperation with the U. S. Government the transfer was made.

Replying to a suggestion the destroyers retain their original names, Mr. Alexander first lord of the Admiralty stated an agreement between the two governments forbids this.

PUT CANADA'S SECOND WAR LOAN OVER THE TOP

BY THE DAILY PAPERS and the Radio, everyone is kept well informed of the magnificent defense fight being carried on by our men of the air, the sea and the land. Soldiers and civilians alike are performing prodigious tasks of heroism and daily duty, in the quieter walks of life that elicits from all, an admiration that words cannot express.

These men will be provided with planes, guns, ammunition, etc., etc. to wage his successful battle against the enemy.

It takes money, lots of it to provide these necessities of war.

It is to furnish these that Canada's Second War Loan is asking for $200,000,000. There still remains a small portion of this to be met.

Buy your bond or bonds today and help put the Loan, and thereby first aid, can't cause over the top.

PRESS CENSORSHIP IN GERMANY CONTROLLED COUNTRIES

Holland—

"THERE IS NO censorship in Holland," said the Nazi Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, shortly after the occupation of that country, "but the newspapers are supposed to take account of the new situation."

The first seems not to have been taken as quickly as was expected, for a little later the President of the so-called "Council of Enlightenment," a Nazi controlled organization made a speech in which he warned the Dutch Newspaper Proprietors' Society that the sands were running out. This Society, he said, had been treated with leniency in view of the useful work it had done in past times and had been given another opportunity to "reorganize itself." But, he added, "the time will have to be made, for we are now living in dynamic times."

Haste was made, but by the Germans, who proceeded to suppress three Dutch newspapers for a period of eight weeks on the ground that they had systematically maintained an unfriendly attitude to the occupiers and had been unable to cease their one-sided propaganda in favour of the Allies.

Their offence apparently was that they failed to take seriously the German White Book which endeavoured to prove that the Allies had been about to attack Germany through Holland and Belgium. One of the suppressed papers was the famous Conservative daily, the Standard, edited by Dr. Colin, who was for many years Prime Minister of the Netherlands.

Denmark—

The procedure has been the same in Denmark, where the newspapers were told to carry on but warned that any expression of anti-German feeling or contradiction of the official German statements about events or public feeling in Denmark would expose them to the severest penalties.

They are forbidden to mark news as coming from German sources, nor the slightest freedom of comment brought forth military censorship about their hands. But the one exception is that the German Censor could not do to influence the Danish public to read the papers thus handled. Their circulations dwindled, their readers turned to the foreign broadcasts which the invader tried in vain to smother out. And similar conditions apply in all other German-occupied countries.

A Warning—

The general conclusion is that the Nazi stronghold of the Press is almost complete in Europe. Nothing can come out of France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway except with the content of the German Censor; much that pretends to be impartial neutral opinion is of German authorship. It must not happen here.

MANTLES FOR OIL LIT BUYS

Britain's New South American Export Incandescent mantles for floating buoys round the Argentine coast are Britain's latest war-time export.

The Argentine Minister of Public Works has recently sent an order for them. Every year more than 1,000 incandescent mantles are used in the outlying towns and villages and on the lonely ranches of the Argentine and other parts of South America lighted by oil lamps. Before the War almost all these mantles were supplied by Germany and the United States. At present Britain is shipping across the Atlantic one-fourth of them, made from artificial silk. One British firm alone exports to the Argentine twelve times more mantles in May than they had done a year before.

Great Britain makes both the smallest and the largest incandescent mantles in the world. The smallest, only seven sixteenths of an inch in length, is used for microscope lighting. The largest, six inches long, was recently produced for a light-house; and British supplies mantles for lighthouses in all the seven seas.

RADIO NOTES

NEW "LIGHT UP AND LISTEN CLUB" SERIES—

When the "Light Up and Listen Club" opens its doors again next week (C.A.C. on September 22nd at 9 o'clock) it will be bright with the glories of new stars.

The new Master of Ceremonies is an old and valued friend of radio listeners throughout the continent—Milton J. Cross. He made their acquaintance as dean of announcers. Mr. Cross is as famous for his authoritative commentaries on the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts as he is for his deft and sympathetic touch in handling children's programs and other broadcasts. In the lighter vein, Mr. Cross reveals his versatility in catching the exact mood of the "Light Up and Listen Club," for he is in reality just as kindly and friendly a man as his voice suggests he should be. In his assignment as Chairman of the "Light Up and Listen Club" meetings, he will call on artists whose success and popularity has made their names household words throughout the continent and even beyond.

Prominent on the talent roster, we find the "Revelers." They have sung no less than six tours of Europe in the course of which they sang for our present King and Queen when they were the Duke and Duchess of York, and for other members of the Royal Family. They sing the songs people love, and they sing them the way people like to hear them sing. They do just that at the "Light Up and Listen Club."

Another newcomer to the Light Up and Listen Club though to stranger to its membership is "Ramona." She started for years with Paul Whiteman when "The King of Jazz" was at the height of his reign. Coming from a musical family, Ramona found sound criticism at home for her grandmother and her parents are all accomplished musicians.

The colored people have a musical tradition all their own and no variety series is complete without a display of their own happy harmonies. This season the "Light Up and Listen Club" will present the "Deep River Boys," all graduates of Hampton Institute. The Deep River Boys, combine a wealth of natural talent with sound musical training.

We think "Light Up and Listen" will also enjoy the work of Bill Johnson. He is a very personable young man who has crowded a great deal of experience and success into his comparatively few years of life.

Heroes All

One of the greatest tales of heroism to come out of the war to date was that of Lieut. R. Davies, the Canadian engineer, and his "suicide squad" of men who dug up the bomb which dropped beside St. Paul's Cathedral. For three days these men worked, and for every minute of those three days they risked being blown to pieces.

The bomb was buried more than 25 feet in the ground. They dug down to it, past a broken gas main which caught fire. They raised it with special tackle, and it slipped back twice on the way up. They loaded it on two two-wheeled barrow, and Lieut. Davies took the wheel and drove through streets cleared of traffic, right out to Hackney marshes where they exploded it. It made a crater 100 feet wide, four feet deep, and the force could hardly be equalled. It is one thing in the heat of
